RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 18 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : U. S. Congressional Budget Office, 2009 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)314174845 Subject: Health care reform - United States. Excerpt: . . . For providers and hospitals that are not part of integrated systems, however, the financial benefits of health IT are not as easy to capture. Correspondingly, those phy-sicians and facilities have adopted electronic health records at a much slower rate. Office-based physicians in particular may see no benefit if they purchase and install such a product - and may even suffer financial harm. Even though the use of health IT could reduce costs for the health system as a whole so as to offset the start-up and operating costs involved, many physicians might not be able to reduce their own office expenses or increase their own revenue sufficiently to pay for it. The health benefits deriving from health IT are probably lower in unintegrated settings, but whether that tendency reflects the lack of financial incentives for effective use of health IT in such settings or stems from other limitations of a more fragmented sys-tem of care is not clear. All in...
