Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Le Briary-Bush: A Novel Chicago! Felix Fay saw with his mind s eye the map on the wall of the railway station-the map with a picture of iron roads from all over the middle west centering in a dark blotch in the corner. He was sitting at a desk in the office of the Port Royal Daily Record, writing headings on sheaves of items sent: n by country correspondents. John Hoffman has finished his new barn. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hayes last Wednesday a fine ten pound boy. Miss Edythe Brush has returned to the State Normal for the fall term. And so on. Felix wrote at the top of the page, Wheaton Whittlings. A rotten heading-but it would have to do. He yawned, and then stared unseeingly at the next page. He was not thinking about those news-itcms. He was thinking about Chicago. . . . A year ago, he had determined to leave Port Royal forever -and go to Chicago. But here he was, still! He had hoped, a year ago, to find, in the excitement of a new life in Chicago, healing for the desperate hearts of love. If only he had gone then! . . . But he hadn t had the money to buy a railway ticket. He had taken this job on the Record, and settled down to life in Port Royal again as a reporter. His twenty-first year had gone by. The hurts of love, so intolerably hard to bear, had healed. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
