Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Indictment: July, 1919 A word about the author of the following remarkable pamphlet. Without doubt the paper is one of the most powerful and unique polemics yet produced by Ireland's most recent struggle for independence. To the Irish race in America, and the friends of Ireland's cause, the author, Daniel Florence Cohalan, stands out as a strong national and international figure. Above all else, he is to them a 100 per cent American, whose fight for Ireland's liberty grows directly out of his American character and principles. He is a native of the State of New York, born at Middletown. He is in the full vigor of middle age. Of the pure Celtic strain of the fighting race, members of his family have been in every war for America from the Revolution on. He is a graduate of Manhattan College, of New York City. Admitted to the Bar in 1888, for many years he practiced law in New York. He became interested in politics, and, over a course of years, wrote the State...
