Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Industrial Code: A Survey of the Postwar Industrial Situation, a Review of Wartime Developments in Industrial Relations, and a Proposal Looking to Permanent Industrial Peace In economic discussions of the European war and its effects three periods are considered: prewar, war, and postwar. The first, with no definite date of beginning, ended with the opening of hostilities in August, 1914; the second began with the latter event and continued until the signing of the armistice on November 11, 1918; while the third began with the cessation of active warfare. In a strictly technical and legal sense this division of the periods is incorrect, for under the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, a period of war is not concluded until the peace, negotiated by the President and ratified by the United States Senate, has been officially proclaimed by the President. In the case of the World War, the Paris Peace Treaty failed of ratification by the Senate. A congressional resolution declaring the war at an end was approved July 2, 1921, whereupon separate treaties of peace were negotiated with Germany, Austria and Hungary, and these treaties were ratified by the Senate on October 18, 1921. Presidential proclamations declaring the reestablishment of peace were issued on November 14, 1921, as applying to Germany; on November 17, with respect to Austria; and on December 20, with respect to Hungary.
